The proceedings were opened by a welcoming statement from President John Lewis and also a welcoming statement from Mr. Richard A. Everett, Resident Manager, The Cloister.

Mr. Harry V. Lamon, Attorney from Atlanta, Georgia, spoke very ably for one and one-half hours on "The Professional Corporation". Mr. Lamon was considered a very articulate and excellent speaker, who held the attention of the Society with no difficulty. A panel discussion moderated by Mr. Lamon then followed with interest by the membership running high.

Dr. Wm. E. Lange was the guest scientific speaker for the Society. He gave a fascinating lecture, very vividly illustrated with slides depicting the means and reasons for the development of safety features in the American automobile.

At 8:30 P.M. we were complimented with a lecture by Jane Yarn on "The Golden Isles - A Search for Ecological Balance". Jane presented a most interesting and fascinating lecture, accentuated by a movie of the same title, by Mr. & Mrs. Clifford West. One hundred thirty-five people were in attendance. Her lecture received many complimentary comments.

At 8:00 P.M. the President's Banquet was held in the Georgian Dining Room of The Cloister. The room was beautifully decorated with a motif of blue and red as expressed in our Shield with lovely local flowers on the head table and a sea fern motif on the other tables. The food was absolutely delicious.

The activity chairman awarded the prizes as follows;

Skeet - young L.K.Thompson (son), Dr. Larry Thompson (father) and

Golf -

There was no prize given in fishing; however, two boats caught approximately 29 fish each on a trip to Cumberland Island as reported.

Entertainment was provided by Shearen Elabash. Through his playing, singing and clever stories, Mr. Elabash kept the crowd absolutely mesmerized for somewhat over an hour. It should be noted that Mr. Elabash was returned as entertainment for our meeting upon popular request to our president.

After the banquet, dancing and good fellowship was enjoyed in the Club Room of The Cloister. When the orchestra quit at midnight the membership went snoozing, boozing and cruising as might be expected.
